

Collection Advisor magazine names David Ward of Delta Recovery Systems as one of the 50 Most Influential Professionals in the Collection Industry for 2005

Honor Announced at Collection Advisor Technology Expo in Las Vegas, Nevada
Nov. 17, 2005

Las Vegas, Nev. – Collection Advisor magazine today announced its selection of the 50 Most Influential Professionals in the Collection Industry for 2005. The announcement was made by Harry A. Strausser III, president of Remit Corporation in Bloomsburg, Pa., former chair of the ACA and emcee of the Collection Advisor Technology Expo.

This is the first year the magazine bestowed an honor of this kind on members of the collections profession, and was a highlight of the Expo, an educational forum for the collections profession sponsored by the magazine.

“All 50 professionals represent the best of the best in the industry, and were chosen not only for their participation as leaders in the profession, but for their support of leading-edge technologies, collection methods and years of insight into what makes this industry a market leader,” says Editor/Publisher T. Allen Rose. “On behalf of the magazine, we are very pleased to bestow this honor on these very worthy professionals.”

Nominated by their peers, the 50 professionals will be featured in the magazine’s January/February 2006 issue.

The President of Delta Recovery Systems in Long Valley, New Jersey, David Ward currently serves as the President of the International Association of Commercial Collectors (IACC) overseeing more than 225 collection specialist agencies, 150 commercial attorneys and members in 38 countries. IACC is the largest organization of commercial collection specialists in the world. David is also:

- President of the International Association of Commercial Collectors (IACC).
- Chairman of the Board of Directors for the IACC.
- Chairman of the subcommittee overseeing (IACC) membership.
- Member of Commercial Law League of America (CLLA) for over 25 years.
- Member of the Leadership Committee of the CLLA's exclusive Commercial Collection Agency Association.
- Member of the Committee overseeing Membership in the Commercial Law League of America
- Regional Manager - North America for Global Credit Solutions.
- Member Northern NJ Mensa
- President of his local Rotary Club.
